Now, point 3 of the program -- 'We demand land and territories (colonies) for the existence of our people and colonization by our surplus population.' Did you agree with this?

It is generally known that, before the first World War, Germany had colonies. By provision of the Versailles Treaty, these colonies had been taken away. I believe every German could understand the wish to regain possession of these colonies, and I remember very well the comments of the foreign press at the time that this wish of the German people was justified.

In Mein Kampf, Hitler said that what was needed was not more colonies in Africa, but more space in Europe. Is that what you are referring to by 'colonies'?

When I say colonies, I mean the old colonial possessions of the German Reich.

Well, how did you expect Germany would get these colonies back?

By peaceful agreement with England. England was in possession of these colonies.
