

SIXTEEN NUREMBERG DEATH SENTENCES HAVE NOT BEEN CARRIED OUT administrative head of the entire SS organization; he was on the same level as the notorious Reinhard Heydrich, and his immediate and

The following facts are matters of public record and can easily be verified at the Department of State and the Department of the Army.

He had full disciplinary power over all concentration camp guards. He 1. During the year 1947, a trial was held at Nuremberg in which the principal defendant was Oswald Pohl, Chief of the Economic and Administrative Department of the SS and in that capacity in direct charge of the administration of all Nazi concentration camps. The other 17 defendants were deputies and assistants to Pohl.

All the defendants were officials of the SS, in which Pohl held the rank of Lt. General (Obergruppenfuehrer).

The judges at the trial were Robert M. Toms (Judge of the Circuit Court of Michigan), F. Donald Phillips (Judge of the Superior Court of North Carolina), and Michael M. Musmanno

(Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Pennsylvania). Pursuant to the judgment delivered on November 3, 1947, Pohl and three other defendants were sentenced to death. Upon rehearing, the Court reduced one of these sentences to life imprisonment, and subsequently the Military Governor (General Clay), upon review of the sentences, commuted one of the other death sentences to life imprisonment.

Accordingly, Pohl and one other defendant have been under sentence of death since November 3rd, 1947, or for over two years.