

It would seem therefore to me that any proposal to fix the salary of a director at a low figure has the effect, even though that may not be its design, to weaken the caliber of men who can be chosen as directors and thereby weaken the Bank and the Fund.

We of Uruguay believe with all our hearts that the Bank and Fund can be made to work and can contribute much to the salvation of a war-torn world. They will be successful, however, only if every step which we take is designed to strengthen them. If we want them to be weak, let's bring this issue out in the open now.
