Andre Meyer, Aaron E. Norman Fund Inc., Lessing J. Rosenwald, David Dewey Stone, Alfred A. Strelsin, United Jewish Campaign of Houston, Texas, and United Jewish Welfare Fund of Los Angeles Jewish Community Council. Some of these individuals are identified either with the American Council for Judaism, The Jewish Agency for Palestine, the Zionist Organization of America, The American Jewish Committee, The Palestine Economic Corporation or the Refugee Economic Corporation. As individuals, their views and those of the organizations with which they are prominently identified range from ardent Zionism through what may be called neutrality to a position of ~~warm~~ opposition to political Zionism. They and the other approximately 100 contributors were as one, however, in agreeing upon the need for a comprehensive survey of the economic potentialities of Palestine by American Palestine Institute, a non-profit research organization which is not affiliated, in any way, with any other organization. The contributors were apprised of the outline of the survey and of the personnel of the investigators. They expressed confidence inthe ability and character of the authors to present facts and supporting evidence which would tend to remove discussions regarding Palestine from the area of embittered emotional controversy to a region of objective consideration.

Many persons in Palestine, in the United States and in Great Britain, including officials of the Palestinian Government, of the United States Department of State, and of the British Foreign Office, and the Colonial Office, have been helpful at one stage or another in the progress of the investigation. The Institute desires to thank all who have been so helpful in furthering the purposes of the survey.

The Institute acknowledges its gratitude to the contributors to the budget of the investigation. To Messrs. Nathan, Gass and Creamer and to their colleagues, the Institute gives thanks for their diligence, untiring effort and for their scholarly report.

In dealing with the publication of the report, we were fortunate in obtaining the cooperation of the American Council on
